

2017 CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Submit your work to the Oxford Monitor of Forced Migration

About OxMo

The Oxford Monitor of Forced Migration (OxMo) is a bi-annual, independent, academic journal that engages with issues of forced migration. By monitoring policy, legal, political and academic developments, OxMo draws attention to the realities of forced migration and identifies gaps in refugee protection. OxMo seeks to engage in a global intellectual dialogue with students, practitioners in the field, academics, NGOs, government representatives, general interest readers and forced migrants.

Call for Submissions

We are currently accepting submissions for the upcoming issue of the Oxford Monitor of Forced Migration (Volume 7, Number 2). Submissions are welcome from practitioners in the field, students, academics, people with first-hand experience of forced migration, and others who would like to share their contribution. The deadline for submitting your work is 30th of October 2017 (subject to section specific extensions if required). You will be notified whether your contribution was accepted roughly one month after the submission deadline. We will support authors of selected articles with detailed feedback prior to publication.

How to Submit in 5 Simple Steps

Step 1: Choosing your section

The Oxford Monitor of Forced Migration is divided into five sections — the academic articles section, the policy monitor, the law monitor, the field monitor, and the first-hand section. To learn more about the different sections, please visit our website (<http://oxmofm.com/submit/choosingyour-section/>). If you are unsure which section is best for your contribution, please contact our Editors-in-Chief under oxmofm@googlemail.com.

Step 2: Checking the requirements of your section

Each section has slightly different requirements when it comes to word count. Submissions to the academic section can be up to 6000 words long, whereas contributions to the monitor sections and the first-hand section should be no longer than 1500 words. Please note that for the first-hand section, multimedia submissions are also welcome. Details about the different sections can be found on our website (<http://oxmofm.com/submit/choosing-your-section/>).

Step 3: Familiarising yourself with our style guideline

In our style guideline, you will find information on our citations style as well as details such as font type and font size. For more information, please visit our website (<http://oxmofm.com/style-guide/>).

Step 4: Finalising your submission

In addition to your contribution, please send us an abstract, a short description of yourself, and a signed copy of our publishing agreement. You can find details about these three additional elements on our website (<http://oxmofm.com/submit/instructions-for-authors/>).

Step 5: Send us your submission by 30th of October 2017

If you are submitting an article to the academic articles section, policy monitor, field monitor, or law monitor, please send your submission to oxmofm@gmail.com. If you are looking to submit to the first-hand section, you can opt for the blind review process we also apply to the other sections (email your submission to oxmofm@gmail.com) or choose to have the guidance of one of our first-hand editors (firsthand.oxmofm@gmail.com). Feel free to contact us on oxmofm@gmail.com for any further questions. We look forward to receiving your contribution.
